The procedure is as follow:

If we are not informed in advance Porth Health personnel usually call us to collect the passenger or to swab them at our facility and bring them back to the arrival to wait for the PCR results. The tested passengers are held back by Port Health until the results are released,

Departure Passengers:

We provide PCR testing at the airport for departing passengers as well. However, passengers must allow adequate time between testing and departure.

We also have a nurse that can be called to swab the passengers at the overnight facility and they can receive their result the same day or evening.
