Dear Esteemed Business Partner,

In many parts of the world, more and more people are being vaccinated, the number of infections is falling and travel restrictions are gradually easing up in several countries. As a result, demand for Lufthansa Group airline tickets is increasing significantly, a strong signal that people are yearning to travel and experience different cultures once again.

Flights to leading long-haul leisure destinations such as Windhoek, have already been showing a strong increase in demand. Thanks to positive booking trends and favorable market conditions, today I am able to announce that the Lufthansa Group will be further increasing our presence in Namibia. With effect from 30th March 2022, we will increase our operations to Windhoek from five weekly flights to a daily flight schedule, through our leisure airline- Eurowings Discover.

As a leading aviation company, we believe in connecting people through a reliable and comprehensive route network, allowing our guests to have an even greater variety of choice when planning their upcoming vacation or business trip. It is with this in mind and great excitement, that through Eurowings Discover, we are additionally able to further expand our Sub-Sahara Africa route network, by adding a brand new destination to our portfolio: Victoria Falls. From 30th March 2022, the Lufthansa Group will for the first time in our history, operate a tag flight from Windhoek to Victoria Falls three times a week. Thus, bringing our Eurowings Discover African portfolio up to six leisure destinations in the region. Below you will find a brief overview of our Windhoek and Victoria Falls flight schedule, effective 30th March 2022:
